

Modern Science Matters

Governments should use advanced methods to test EDCs to better protect public health.

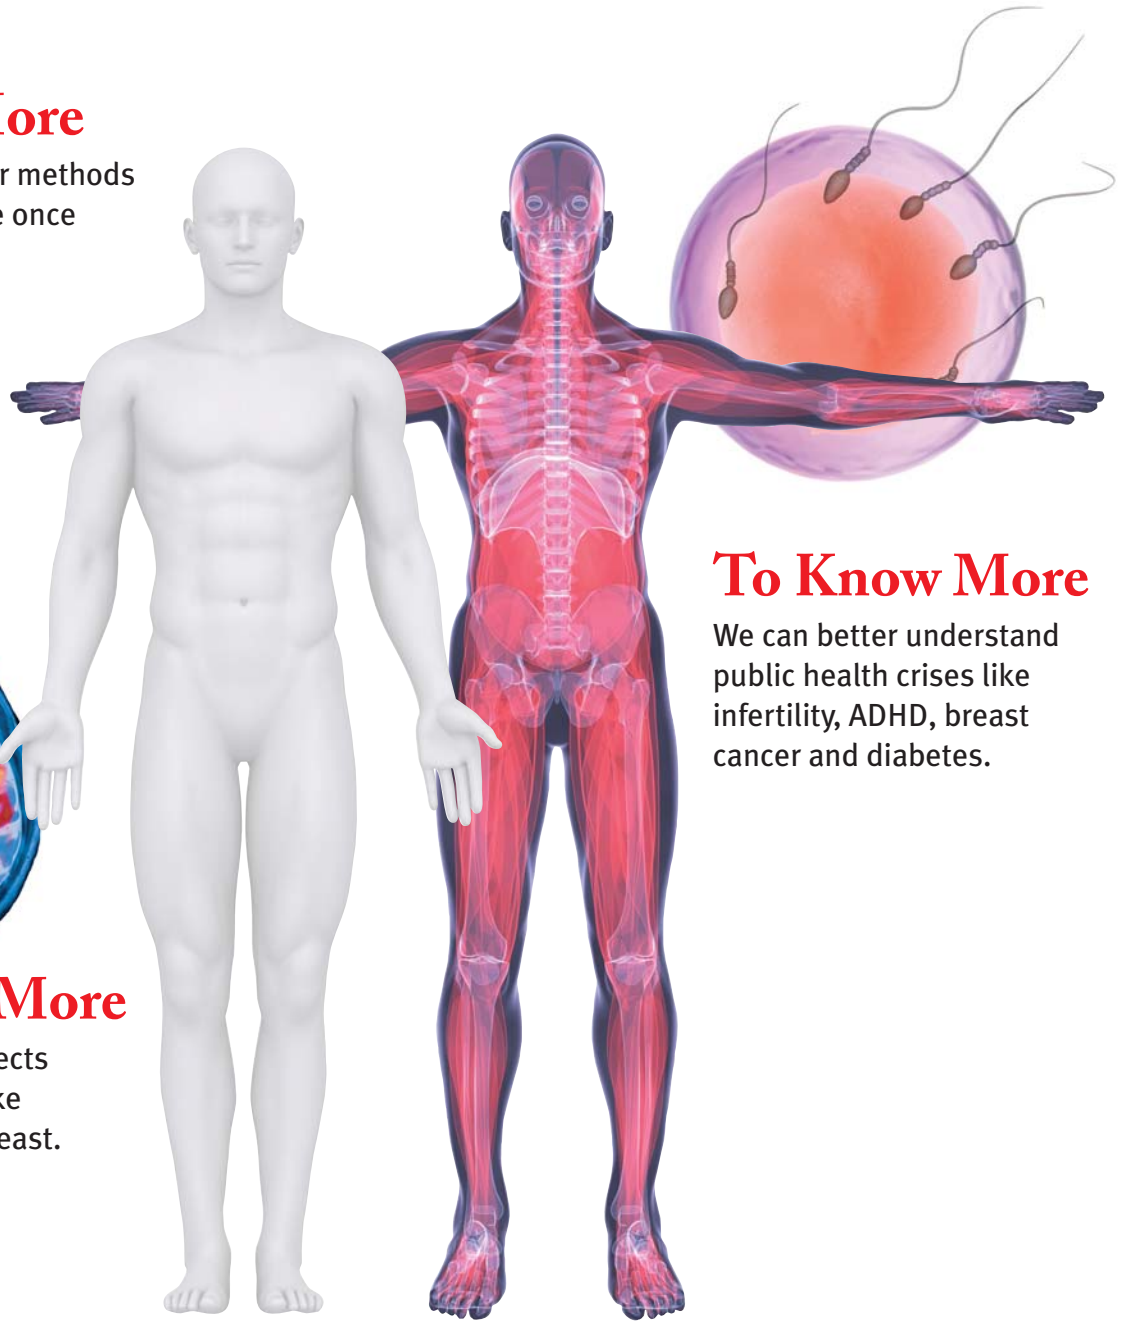

To See More

We can use better methods to reveal what we once could not see.

To Detect More

We can measure effects of EDCs in organs like the brain and the breast.

To Know More

We can better understand public health crises like infertility, ADHD, breast cancer and diabetes.

Modern science improves understanding of EDC effects.